

REACH AGREEMENT FOR NEW HAVEN DISSOLUTION

COMPLETE AGREEMENT RESULT OF WEEKS OF NEGOTIATION

Representatives of the Railroad Are Willing to Accept Arrangements Advocated by the Attorney General if Approved by the Stockholders in a Meeting to Be Called at Once.

Washington, March 21.—After several weeks of negotiations the department of justice and the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad tonight announced that they had reached a complete agreement for a dissolution of the New Haven. The announcement was made in the following terms:

"The attorney general has indicated to the representatives of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad the arrangements which he thinks would result in bringing the affairs of that company into harmony with law. The representatives of the railroad are willing to accept the requirements indicated and to endeavor to put them into effect without delay if approved by the stockholders in a meeting to be called at once.

"The indicated arrangement stated in general terms follows:

"1. The Boston railroad holding company is a Massachusetts corporation, holding a majority of the stock of the Boston & Maine railroad and 90 per cent of the former stock, in turn is owned by the New Haven railroad.

"The charter of the holding company prohibits it from disposing of the Boston & Maine stock. The legislature of Massachusetts will be asked to remove this prohibition and, if this is done, the stock of the holding company will be transferred at once to five trustees, and, after arrangements have been made to protect the minority stock of the holding company, they shall sell the Boston & Maine stock prior to Jan. 1, 1917.

"2. The stocks of the companies which control the Connecticut & Rhode Island trolley will be placed in the hands of trustees—five for each state—and shall be sold within five years from July 1, 1914.

"3. The majority of the stock of the Merchants and Miners Transportation company now held by the New Haven railroad will be placed in the hands of three trustees and shall be sold within three years from Jan. 1, 1914.

"4. The minority stock in the Eastern Steamship corporation held by the New Haven railroad shall be sold within three years from July 1, 1914, and in the meantime shall be deprived of voting power.

"5. Whether the New Haven railroad shall be permitted to retain the sound lines will be submitted to the interstate commerce committee for determination under the provisions of the Panama canal act.

"6. The Berkshire trolleys shall be sold within five years from July 1, 1914.

"7. A decree embodying the foregoing shall be entered in the United States district court for the southern district of New York. The decree shall further provide that upon application of the New Haven railroad for the trustees and for good cause shown the time within which any of the above mentioned stocks shall be sold may be extended by the court.

"Trustees satisfactory to all parties have been suggested.

"The essential reason for placing the property in the hands of trustees is to secure their immediate independent management.

"This statement has the approval of both the attorney general and the representatives of the railroad.

CHARGE OF BLASPHEMY AGAINST RUSSIAN NOVELIST

ST. PETERSBURG, Russia, Mar. 21.—Court proceedings are to be brought immediately against Maxim Gorky, the Russian novelist, on the charge of blasphemy, according to an order issued today by the public prosecutor of the district court of St. Petersburg. The charge of blasphemy was preferred against Gorky in 1908 in connection with his novel entitled "Mother," in which he is alleged to have insulted the national faith. If found guilty the novelist's sentence, according to the Russian law, would be exile to Siberia.

DUNNE COMMUTES SENTENCE.

Springfield, Ill., March 21.—Governor Danne today, upon recommendation of the state board of pardons commuted the sentence of Roy Powell, sentenced to thirty years from Stephenson county for murder, to expire March 25th. ## MADAME CAILLAUX RELATES MOTIVES WHICH INDUCED HER TO SLAY EDITOR

Prisoner Recounts Things Which She Asserts Preyed on Her Mind Until She Determined to Kill Gaston Calmette.

Paris, March 21.—Madame Caillaux in her preliminary examination before Magistrate Henri Boucard this afternoon recounted the motives which induced her to kill Gaston Calmette, editor of Figaro. She was taken from Saint Lazare prison to the Palace of Justice in a cab, guarded by detectives.

The prisoner was attired in a handsome black and astrakhan mantle and carried the same muff in which she concealed the revolver on the day of the shooting.

Once during her recital she gave way to emotion, at other times she appeared calm and fearless.

Madame Caillaux declared that since her girlhood she had been a reader of the Figaro. When it joined in the campaign against him, her indignation was intense.

"On Friday, March 13th," she said, "the Figaro published a fragment of a letter signed 'Ty Joe.' That letter, I know, was in the possession of a woman, as well as two other private letters written to me by M. Caillaux before our marriage. I sought counsel for the purpose of having the publication of these letters legally prevented, but in vain. All these things preyed on my mind and I determined to put a stop to the calumnies."

The magistrate decided not to pursue the inquiry further. (The investigation will be taken up again next week.)

On leaving the magistrate's office, Madame Caillaux was escorted by two detectives to an automobile and conducted to the jail. A small crowd of curious persons gathered around the Palace of Justice but there was no demonstration.

At the hearing of the committee of the chamber of deputies in the Rochette inquiry, ex-premier Monis and Public Prosecutor Fabre were called to confront each other. They told contradictory stories regarding the postponement of the trial of Rochette on charges of extensive swindling. M. Fabre insisted that he had received an order from M. Monis for the postponement which the ex-premier flatly denied.

There were several minor demonstrations today in Paris, Versailles and Marseilles.

Hear Number of Witnesses.

The committee of the chamber of deputies inquiring into the allegations that ministerial influence had been brought to bear to secure the postponement of the trial of Henri Rochette on charges of extensive swindling, heard a number of witnesses today. Among them were several magistrates, who confirmed the statement of Victor Fabre, chief public prosecutor, that pressure had been exerted on him by Ernest Monis and Joseph Caillaux while they were ministers in order to have the case postponed.

ST. LOUIS WILL VOTE ON BONDS TO FINISH MUNICIPAL BRIDGE

ST. LOUIS, Mo., March 21.—Petitions bearing more than fifty thousand names will be filed with the St. Louis board of election commissioners Monday asking the municipal assembly to submit to the voters an ordinance for a special election to vote bonds to complete the municipal bridge across the Mississippi river. The petitions ask that the bridge be completed along the course already bought for the eastern approach. A bond issue to complete the approach along this route already has been defeated three times.

When the petition is filed, it will be mandatory on the municipal assembly either to submit a bond issue for the completion of the bridge or to submit to the people an ordinance providing for a bond election.

ADVOCATES LAW COMPELLING ALL YOUTHS OVER 25 TO MARRY

PITTSBURGH, March 21.—"All the oriental youths must marry when they are young. I want to see a law passed that will compel every young man over 25, who is not married to pay a tax to the government for the support of a wife," declared the Rev. Dr. Camden M. Coburn of Allegheny College, Meadville, Pa., at tonight's session of the mid-winter bible conference in Memorial Hall here. Dr. Coburn deprecated advanced bachelorhood and urged young men to marry young.

DEBATE DELAYS OPENING OF BATTLE FOR REPEAL

Debate on Sims' bill to repeal Panama canal tolls exemption delayed by rivers and harbors appropriation bill.

Adjourned at 5:30 p. m., to noon Monday.

Senate.

Met at noon.

Washington, March 21.—The opening of the legislative battle for repeal of the tolls exemption provision of the Panama canal act was delayed until next week by prolonged consideration in the house today of the river and harbors appropriation bill. Renewed skirmishing in the senate served to reveal however, the intensity of feeling in the controversy.

Administration leaders had planned to call up the Sims repeal bill in the house today and present a rule to limit general debate to fifteen hours. It is not likely now that the bill can be taken up before Tuesday or that a vote can be had until late next week.

Senator Jones' resolution calling on the president on information as to what foreign governments have protested against American toll exemption was referred by the senate today to the committee of foreign relations. Representative Sims interrupted Representative Moore, Republican, who was talking on the rivers and harbors bill in the house today with an accusation that there was filibustering on the Republican side against the repeal in order to gain time for its opponents. He objected to the long debate on an $8,900 item in the rivers bill for Raccoon Creek, N. J., which nobody had assailed.

Both Moore and Republican Leader Mann denied that any filibustering was in progress. Mr. Moore suggested that Mr. Sims "evidently had heard from some one higher up" and had hurried to hasten action on the repeal.

Passage of Bill Celebrated.

Seattle, Wash., March 21.—Passage of the Alaska railroad bill by congress was celebrated here and at many points in Alaska tonight. A long parade the most picturesque ever seen here moved through the principal streets. The tone of the banners carried was one of jubilation over the approaching development of the rich territory in the north. Pack horses, dog teams and men with gold rockers, shoulder packs, fur hoods, picks and shovels were in line. Steamers bound for Alaska are unable to take all the people who apply for passage. Two thousand men have gone north since the railroad bill was passed.

Make Increase in Army Bill.

An increase of $7,565,000 in the army appropriation bill was made by the senate military affairs committee today in reporting the measure to the senate. The amended bill carries an appropriation of $194,755,000.

The most important new item is $175,000 to construct a military camp from Washington State to Alaska.

For Highway Improvement.

The house bill providing for highway improvement work in conjunction with the states was favorably reported to the senate today by the agricultural committee. It would appropriate $1,000,000 for 1914 and authorize an appropriation of $1,000,000 for 1915, with additional yearly increases until 1921 when the amount authorized would be $10,000,000.

Clark Bill Favorably Reported.

"We feel the district should be in line with the general sentiment of the states," says the statement of the house committee on the District of Columbia, which favorably reported today the Clark bill prohibiting the inter-marriage of whites and

EDUCATORS DIFFER ON TEACHING OF SEX FACTS

Debate on Subject Held by Members of North Central Association in Session in Chicago.

Chicago, March 21.—Considerable variance of the views of educators, both of universities and lower schools, on the advisability of teaching sex facts was shown here today in a debate on that subject which closed the annual meeting of the North Central association of colleges and secondary schools.

"It all depends on the personality of the teacher," said C. E. Chadsey, superintendent of schools of Detroit. "We fail in our duty if we do not educate pupils to know the difference between right and wrong. The course has failed because of injudicious publicity. Had it been developed gradually the result might be a responsible citizenry."

"The school should not take on a responsibility they cannot meet," declared W. J. S. Bryan, superintendent of the St. Louis schools. "There are other places for children to learn these things than in school."

COURT WILL DECIDE ARGUMENT OVER RATE AGREEMENT TOMORROW

ST. LOUIS, Mo., March 21.—Whether the Wabash railroad should be enjoined from cancelling its joint through rate agreement with the Illinois Terminal railroad owned by the Illinois Glass company was argued before United States Circuit Judge Adams here today. Judge Adams said he would decide the matter next Monday.

Joseph W. Folk, general counsel for the interstate commerce commission, intervened on behalf of the commission saying that if the injunction were granted the judge would raise the question of the jurisdiction of the court over railroad rates. He contended that control of rates was vested in the interstate commerce commission.

WILL ASK LEGISLATION TO RECLAIM MARSH LAND

CHICAGO, March 21.—With the aid of proper legislation 1,500,000 acres of marsh land in the Kankakee valley could be reclaimed and would furnish homes for thousands of families, it was asserted at a meeting here today of property owners of that section.

R. D. Kilne, president of the Starke county (Ind.) and Kankakee river improvement association, who presided, asserted the proper legislation would be asked of the next legislatures of Illinois and Indiana.

No arrests were made until today when Mrs. Brazzell was taken into custody.

negroes in the District. The statement pointed out that many states have laws on this subject.

Victim of Parliamentary Procedure

The McCumber federal grain inspection bill was made the victim of parliamentary procedure today when his author achieved for it a position where the measure would be promptly voted upon only to lose his advantage a moment later because of his courtesy to a fellow senator.

Senator McCumber sought and won for his bill the position of unfinished business which meant that it would come up at 2 p. m. every day for debate until finally disposed of. It required a vote of the senate to give the bill that place. Then Senator Meyers asked unanimous consent to take up a bill dealing with Montana coal lands. Senator McCumber agreed to lay the grain inspection measure aside temporarily but when he sought to bring it up again just before adjournment in order to assure its status vigorous parliamentary opposition and the lack of a quorum defeated him.

Senator McCumber expected to renew the fight for a vote on the grain inspection bill Monday.

REBEL NET ABOUT TORREON DRAWS CLOSER

GENERAL HERRERA DEFEATS FEDERAL FORCE NORTH OF CITY

In Most Important Engagement of the Advance Near Hacienda Santa Clara, 106 Federals Are Reported Killed, While the Rebel Loss Is Said to Have Been Slight—Villa Much Elated.

Constitutionalist Hospital Base, Bermejio, Durango, Mexico, March 21.—The rebel net about Torreon and vicinity was drawn closer today and General Herrera fought the most important engagement of the advance near Hacienda Santa Clara, 22 miles north of Torreon. In the engagement 106 federals were killed, according to report. The rebel loss is reported as slight—three killed and seven wounded. The fight took place over possession of a spot on the banks of the Big Tlahualilo irrigation ditch where Herrera wished to throw a bridge and the construction of which he began immediately upon retirement of the enemy, whose numbers he estimated at 400.

At other points the federal advance guards retreated, precipitately burning and wrecking as they went. At the small railroad shops were burned. General Villa is elated beyond measure and when he took possession of a telephone wire which was working into the City of Torreon he lost no time in calling up the office of the federal commander, General Refugio Velasco. On officer of the latter's staff answered the call.

"I am coming to have supper with you," General Villa began.

"Who are you?" inquired the federal officer, politely.

"I am a hombre called Francisco Villa," replied that chieftain.

"Well, come whenever you are ready," came the answer.

Villa talked from this city, which he took at a gallop without resistance. His scouts brought word that the federals had made a poor job of wrecking the railroad track.

This camp, where Villas has an immense store of ammunition, is just outside the city and was the scene of great activity today as cartridges and shells were being forwarded by rail and packed on mules and burros to Herrera, Benavides, Contreras and other generals.

George C. Carothers, United States consular agent was given renewed assurances of fair treatment to foreigners by General Villa in an interview today.

CHICAGO CLUB WOMEN APPOINTED DEPUTY ASSESSORS

Women Will Seek Especially to Assess the Property of Women—Develop New Ideas in Assessing.

Chicago, March 21.—The feminist movement in Chicago progressed another step today when eight club women were appointed deputy assessors. They will be assigned to districts where their work will be the most effective and most pleasant. They will seek especially to locate and assess the property of women, who at present compose less than one-half of one per cent of the tax payers of the county.

"In the few days we have discussed the woman deputy question a dozen new ideas in assessing has developed," said Frank Rolaski, secretary of the board of assessors. "I believe women will prove to be our most ingenious deputies. One of them has already made a suggestion entirely new to me. She said that many Chicago women have their private checking accounts, hold stocks and bonds in their own name and possess wardrobes representing more money than has been charged to their husbands in the past. She wanted to know why women who import rich furs, silks and lingerie, which to the ordinary man would be worth a fortune, shouldn't pay taxes on them."

"The appointment of the women was brought about by the women themselves. Prominent women have called since the women's suffrage went into effect, asserted women wanted to become tax payers and argued that to bring that about women should have some part in the taxing."

SENTENCED FOR KILLING.

Metz, Germany, March 21.—Lieut. VanLaVaelt, Saint George of the 98th German Infantry regiment was today sentenced to thirty months imprisonment in a fortress for killing Lieut. Haage in a duel on Feb. 26th. He was also dismissed from the army.

REGISTRATION LIST REDUCED.

Chicago, March 21.—Chicago's registration list was reduced to below 670,000 today by striking off of the names of practically 20,000 persons who failed to respond to "suspect" notices. More than 25,000 of these notices were mailed, 1,665 in the first ward, where there are a large number of cheap lodging houses.

ANNOUNCE STATE CONFERENCE

KING GEORGE USING EVERY MEANS TO AVERT BLOODSHED

English Monarch Seeks to Prevent Serious Clash Between Government Troops and Ulster Forces.

London, March 20.—King George assumed the role of peacemaker today in an effort to prevent the threatened war between the government troops and the forces of Ulster.

Just what the result of his majesty's conciliatory move will be is a matter of conjecture tonight, but it is known the king is using every influence to avert bloodshed in the Ulster controversy.

His majesty had long had conferences with the prime minister, Mr. Asquith, the secretary of the state for war, Col. Seely, and several other high officers and afterward summoned Field Marshal Lord Roberts. The latter has been criticised by the liberals for utterances which they construed as encouragement to those officers who have resigned from their regiments.

From the palace the veteran field marshal drove directly to the war office where he had a long talk with the secretary for war. The army council held an extended conference at the war office, generals and lesser officers of the staff coming and going throughout the day. The government's military precautions to preserve order in Ulster have precipitated a crisis without parallel in the history of the British army. Rather than be placed in a position where they might be called upon to act against the Ulster covenanted, numbers of officers have resigned their commissions.

Organization Is Crippled.

While the war office refused to say how many have resigned, popular belief based on the reports from the different regiments is that the number of withdrawals has crippled the whole military organization in Ireland and prevented carrying out of orders for the moving of several large bodies of troops.

Just how the government will deal with the resignations is exciting unusual public curiosity. The liberal sentiment is that the seceding officers should be courted.

Many conservatives argue, however, that the situation in reality amounts to civil war and that the officers should have liberty to choose their own fates.

Movement Continues in Ireland.

In the meantime the movement of troops continued in Ireland. The center of interest shifted to Curragh, twenty-five miles from Dublin, where the third cavalry brigade under General Gough and the fourteenth infantry brigade under Col. Rolfe, stationed.

commanding the forces in Ireland, spent the day in camp. He held a conference with fifty officers of the Curragh, Dublin, Kildare and New Bridge garrisons. It was said that orders had arrived for the dispatch of the third brigade to Ulster, but that these could not be carried into execution because practically all the officers had resigned. Orders for the dispatch of the sixteenth lancers also failed of execution by reason of the same wholesale retirements of officers. According to some reports the military men have unanimously refused information, but a Dublin dispatch says that the resignations of the Curragh forces number forty. Other advices place the number at 100.

Create No Demonstration.

Belfast, Ireland, March 21.—Details of the disaffection among the troops at Curragh which were published fully in the evening papers here created no demonstrations of excitement. Belfast tonight is wearing an absolutely normal aspect, says that the Saturday shopping crowds were held this afternoon at Craigavon between Sir Edward Carson, the Ulster unionist leader, Gen. Sir George Richardson, commander-in-chief of the Ulster troops, and forty officers comprising the regimental commanders of forces at which mobilization details were perfected. The headquarters at Craigavon are maintaining constant communication with the mobilization centers by motorcycle dispatch carriers. Sir Edward Carson made a statement after the conference regarding military situation.

"The government is attempting to cow Ulster by intimidation and provocation, but both will fail."

TAKES OATH OF OFFICE.

(Washington, March 21.—H. C. Hall of Colorado, took the oath of office today as a member of interstate commerce commission and entered upon his duties. Mr. Hall was named to fill the unexpired term of Judge Charles A. Prouty of Vermont.

RENT BUILDING FOR HOTEL.

FOR CHICAGO'S UNEMPLOYED

CHICAGO, March 21.—Another hotel for Chicago's unemployed was assured today when the Christian Industrial League rented a four story building on South State street. It will be known as the Pioneer and besides providing sleeping quarters for 400 wanderers will contain a club room, sitting room, a game room and auditorium.

In the basement will be baths and facilities for the men to wash and press their clothing. Any man will be welcome to use the basement whether or not he is a guest at the hotel.

Two surgeons have offered to hold clinics at the hotel as soon as an operating room is equipped. Men who wish to come back in a self-supporting way will be given employment at the present quarters of the league to be supplied by the ninety churches in the Chicago Presbytery which support it.

REBEL FORCES ARE ROUTED

SALVATION ARMY WORKERS INVADE NEW YORK DANCE HALLS

Joyful Crowds Do Not Appear Abashed and Listen in Silence to Songs and Speeches.

New York, March 21.—Tango enthusiasts and devotees of the night life along Broadway were surprised tonight when a band of Salvation Army men and women invaded the floors of some of the most popular dance establishments and begged the amusement seekers to stop and listen to a word about the serious side of life. The joyful crowds did not appear a bit abashed, but they listened in silence to the Salvation Army songs and speeches and applauded liberally.

At all the places visited Adjutant George W. Cook, who led the party and his followers were welcomed.

At one popular dance resort the manager met the little army and escorted it to the dancing floor while men and women eyed them curiously from the tables surrounding the open space. When the army burst into song with "When the Roll is Called Up Yonder," the diners started startled glances at each other, but at the end of the hymn there was a burst of applause, the majority of the diners seeming to think it was an act of the cabaret. If so they were deceived when Adjutant Cook raised his hand for silence and solemnly addressed them with a warning that enjoyment was not everything in life and a plea that they turn to things "nobler, truer and finer."

Will Fight Hilarity With Prayer.

Chicago, March 21.—Midnight hilarity in Chicago's cafes and dance halls is to be fought by the Salvation Army with prayer and religious music. Col. George French announced tonight. It is planned to organize a large band of musicians and assemble them in the downtown district in time to attract the attention of the after theater crowds. The musicians will visit the principal cabarets nightly.

Details of the new propaganda will be completed this week upon the return from New York of Commissioner Thomas Estill who aided in starting the movement against the "tango palaces" there.

Why She Believed.

"What sort of a chap is that fellow that has been calling upon you?"

"He's the luckiest fellow in the world."

"How do you know?"

"He told me so."

"And do you believe all he tells you?"

"I believe that, for he told me it just after I had promised to become his wife."—Houston Post.

DARING BASEBALL PLAY.

Three Stolen Bases and a Run on a Scranton Infield Hit.

"The greatest baseball play I ever saw," says a writer in the American Magazine, "occurred in a game between the Philadelphia Athletics and the Detroit Tigers in Shibe park, Philadelphia, June, 1912.

Ty Cobb, his first time up, hit a nasty grounder toward the first base. The ball had a deceptive bound and Stuff Melines had some trouble reaching for it and keeping hold of the ball when he got it. But he managed to scramble over and touch first just as Ty raced over the bag. Connie Mack's loyal rooters declared the Georgia Peach out by a mile, but the umpire had ideas of his own and Tyros rested safely on the initial sack.

The unexpected usually happens when this star swatsman is running bases, and on this occasion he did not disappoint his admirers. After the pitcher had thrown the ball Ty, having a fairly good lead, decided to amble along down to second, bearing no doubt, that Lapp (the Athletics' catcher) would be taken off his guard and throw wild. To try for second after a catcher of Lapp's ability has the ball requires nerve of a high order. He is usually there with the perfect peg, but the sight of Cobb lagging along was too much for him and he heaved the ball into center field.

Cobb saw Barry crouched in front of the base waiting as if to receive the ball, so gathering speed, he made one of his bent leg slides and landed behind the bag. Then seeing that the ball had gone to center field, he started for third base at top speed. Some one I think it was Collins made a beautiful throw to "Home-Run" Baker, who stabbed Cobb with the ball as that well known gentleman was in the act of sliding head first for the third base of rest.

The crowd groaned when the umpire motioned Cobb safe at third. While admiring his nifty exhibition the fans really wanted the dangerous fellow disposed of, and he had reached third by the closest kind of a margin.

Ty slipped the dust from his toes and, as usual, ran several feet up the path toward home each time the pitcher started to wind up. The batter had now gathered two strikes, and with the next wind up Cobb raced for the plate at full speed, sliding with great force against Lapp, who was waiting for him with the ball. But the throw had been a little too high, and the catcher was taken off his feet before he could touch the daring base runner. Cobb therefore stole three bases after having reached first by a lucky scratch hit and made the first run of the game before the next batter up had hit the ball.

Hotel Room Keys.

A locksmith employed in one of New York's largest hotels explained the lock system of the house, saying that there were 1,500 rooms in the hotel with in dividual keys, each of which will open only the lock it was made for. The "master key," however, will open or lock all of the doors in the hotel, and the "emergency key," besides doing this, will lock a door so that no other key will open it. The "master key" and the key made especially for any one of the doors are useless after the "emergency key" has locked the door. With it a man may be locked in or out of his room, and if so he will remain locked in or out until the "emergency key" is used again. It sets a lock so that no other key can turn it.—New York Times.

Do You Know Her?

"I do have the worst trouble with the phone."
"What's the cause?"
"The service, of course. Let me show you: Hello, exchange, hello! Why don't you answer? I want Mrs. Brown Mrs. Julia Brown. What number? No. 62 Tanglefoot street. Number? I just told you. Oh, that? You mean her telephone number? Why, it's there, you've gone and put it all out of my head. I'll have to look in the book. Dear, dear, the book is upstairs. Well, I never in all my life saw such service!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Prize Welsh Bull.

Wales produces bulls other than those found in cattle shows. A north Wales correspondent, says the Western Mail, calls upon the parish councils to hold meetings of protest. "In the meantime," he says, "I hope able pens than mine will put their shoulder to the wheel and flood the columns of your paper until satisfaction is forthcoming." We hereby warn all pens against shouldering or flooding this column.

Daintily Refined.

Margie—He looks like a shrimp to me, but Minnie says he's just dreadfully refined. Margie—Yes. She says he confided to her that he wouldn't even let the dentist watch him select his false teeth, because he thinks it's vulgar to pick his teeth in public.—Kansas City Star.

About Time.

Ethel—Did you know Jesse had thrown Frank over? Mabel—Goodness, no! Why? Ethel—Oh, the wretch stopped calling and writing and all that. I understand.—Judge.

An Epicure.

The Artist—I want you to pose for my picture, "The Prodigal Son." The Tramp—Can't do it. The Artist—Why not? The Tramp—Well, doesn't agree with me.—London Illustrated Bits.

With the near approach of spring the citizens of Franklin have begun preparations for a baseball club. Friday evening a meeting was held in which J. B. Wright was elected temporary chairman, Milford Rees, secretary and Dennis Whalen, treasurer.

It was decided to sell at least 50 shares of stock at $5.00 per share and the following committee was appointed to look after the sale of stock: Frank Reagal, Harry Olinger, Thomas Donohue, James Lonergan, G. J. Dowell, Oscar Harmon, Olan G. J. Seymour, Glenn Harney, Waverly, Charles, Strawn, Alexander; J. B. Wright.

It is the intention to build a grand stand, bleachers and fix the park up generally and from the interest manifested there will not be much trouble in disposing of the stock.

OSCAR SEAGLE.

It seems almost unnecessary to speak at length of this distinguished American baritone, who appears for the 3rd time in concert before a Jacksonville audience, Monday night at the Congregational church, a native of Chattanooga, Tenn., pupil of Jean de Reszke of Paris. Mr. Seagle has had large and popular studios in Paris, London and New York, and is a favorite concert and salon singer of the continent in England and the United States. His work is often compared with that of Amato of the New York Metropolitan Opera Co. Our local interest is that he is the teacher of Mrs. Helen Brown Read, Mrs. Wm. Barr Brown Jr., Miss Mabel Fairbank Mathews and Mr. William Phillips.

DON'T COUGH YOURSELF INTO A SERIOUS CONDITION.

To neglect a cough or cold is always a hazardous act. A cold so often goes down on the lungs, and the cough that follows may easily be a symptom of bronchitis, pleurisy, or even pneumonia. Coughing frequently follows attacks of a gripple, and if severe and persistent, is a tax on the system that weakens the vital resistance. Foley's Honey and Tar Compound is an effective medicine for coughs and colds. It is a perfect demulcent that may be relied upon for quick relief. A man named, A. R. Ellison, Taylor, Wis., writes:—"I make a point of recommending Foley's Honey and Tar Compound to all those needing a certain and safe cure from coughs and colds."—For sale by City Drug Co., J. A. ### SOCIAL EVENTS.

Mrs. G. L. Lynn of Spaulding Place entertained a number of the little friends of her daughter, Helen Caroline, Saturday afternoon in honor of the fifth birthday of little Miss Lynn. The hours were from 2 until 5 and some very appropriate refreshments were served at a convenient time. In the contests which served to pass the time of the children, prizes were won by Grace Priest and Fred Lynn. The young hostess was the recipient of a number of beautiful presents.

A surprise party was given Thomas Parker at his home on North Pine street recently on the occasion of his birthday. The surprise was managed by Mrs. Parker and son George, Miss Alice Ross and James Hamilton. It is needless to say that all present had a good time. Refreshments were served during the evening. Those present were, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Cooper, James Hamilton, Miss Alice Ross and the Parker family.

Members of the Freshman class of the Illinois Woman's College entertained the Juniors Saturday evening in the society halls, which were elaborately decorated in blue and white, the Junior colors. Two contests were held, Miss Lucille Reinbach being awarded the prize offered in one of them. One of the amusing features of the evening's entertainment was the appearance of Misses Mary Moss and Mary Harrison, dressed as clowns, who gave a number of limericks to the Juniors. At the close of a delightful evening an elaborate luncheon was served.

Mrs. William Floreth entertained a company of young folks at the family residence on West College avenue Saturday afternoon, in honor of the 12th birthday of her daughter, Mary. The house was suitably decorated for the occasion and games and music helped pass away the hours, during which time suitable refreshments were served.

Among the guests present were, Carroll Landers, Marian Spruit, Marjorie McMurphy, Wilma Williamson, Katherine Parker, Edith Stranberg, Gladys Wintler, Lucy Coover, Ruth Patterson, Louise Chipchase, Cora Cherry, Mary Winchester, Margaret Tomlinson, Blanche Walls, Mary Leedy, Frances Waddell and Eunice Williamson.

The Domestic Science Round Table was entertained at a St. Patrick's party, Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. D. Doying, 611 West College street. Mrs. Ben Lorton had charge of the program, substituting for Mrs. George Lewis, who recently moved to Des Moines, Iowa. The paper she read was on the subject, "Ireland and Irish Traditions," which proved a most interesting and instructive one. It was illustrated by songs given by Mrs. A. M. Roberts with Mrs. F. C. Randall as accompanist. The songs were "The Wearing of the Green," "St. Patrick's Day in the Morning," "Where the River Shannon Flows," and "Kathleen Mavourneen." The decorations were in keeping with the St. Patrick idea and most unique. Suitable refreshments were served.

RUN-DOWN WOMEN

Find Health in Simple Tonic.

How many women do you know who are perfectly well, strong and healthy as a woman should be? They may not be sick enough to lie in bed—but they are run-down, thin, nervous, tired and devitalized.

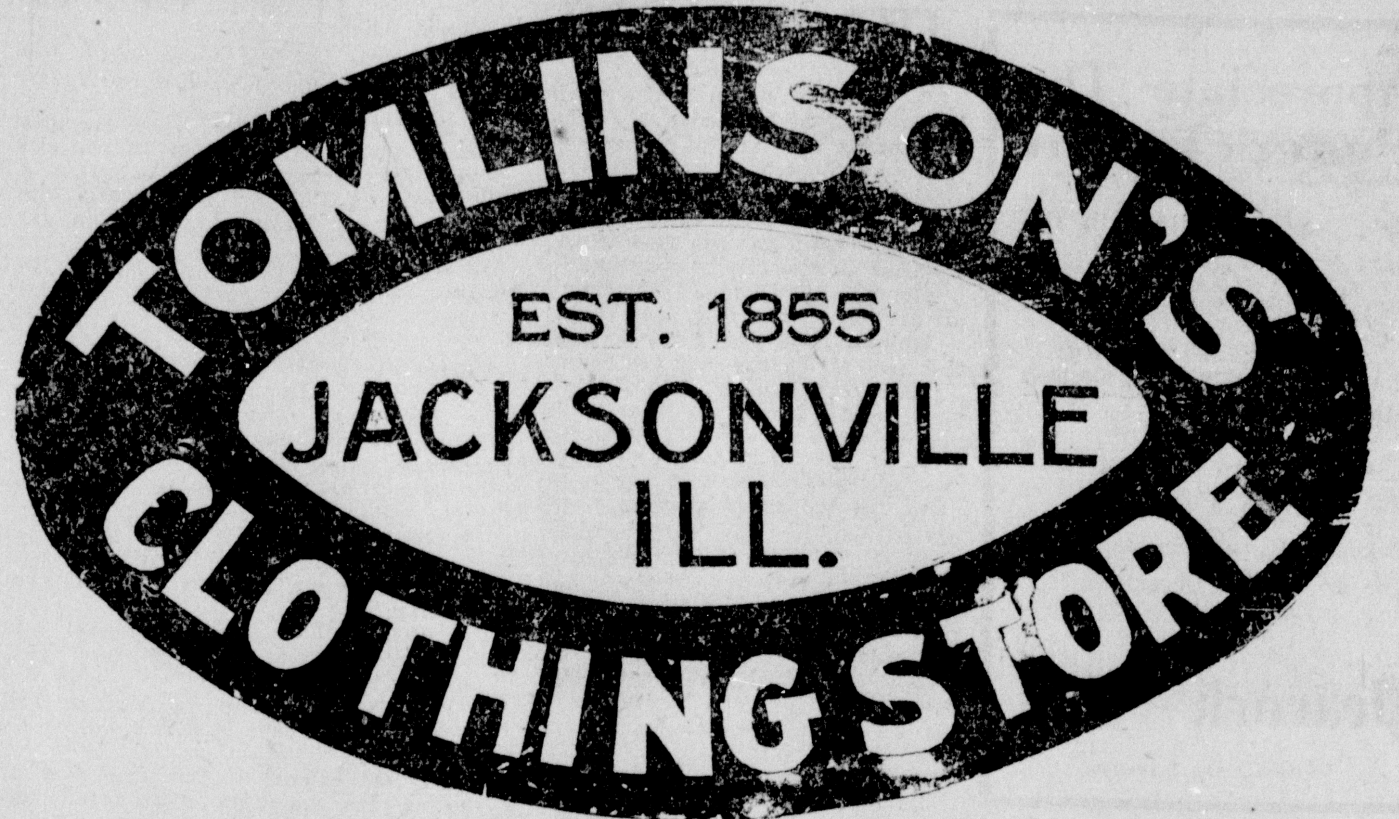

Women are so active nowadays, and so much is expected of them, that they constantly overdo and suffer from headache, backache, nervousness and kindred ills.

Such women need Vinol our delicious cod liver and iron tonic without oil which will create an appetite, tone up the digestive organs, make pure blood and create strength.

Mrs. Walter Price, Biloxi, Miss., says: "I was in a run-down condition for months, I had taken several medicines but they seemed to do me no good. Finally Vinol was recommended and from the first bottle I began to improve until I am strong and well as ever."

Try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that your money will be returned if it does not help you. Lee P. Allcott, Druggist, Jacksonville, Ill.

you to come to our Sales Room, 222 South Main Street, and see those 1914 Automobiles, examine them closely and note their beautiful finish and solid construction. Go into details with the man in charge. Ask questions. Ask about the factory, its financial condition, etc.

After a thorough investigation we believe that you will agree with us that the Reo offers more value for the price than any other auto now being sold.

You will not be urged to buy a Reo. In fact, you will not be asked to buy one. What we do ask is that before you buy a car that you see the Reo and get your information about them from a reliable source. Ask for a demonstration. See the simple cane handle control; the method of applying the brakes whereby you disconnect the engine and apply both sets of brakes without removing your hands from the steering wheel. This is an exclusive feature with the Reo and there are many other things which make it stand out head and shoulders above any other car in its class.

Then after this careful investigation should you decide to buy a Reo we will be pleased to sell it to you and you will get with it our personal guarantee of satisfactory service.

ARRANGES FOR SERIES OF SPECIAL FEATURES.

Manager Scott to Show From Four To Five Extraordinary Subjects Each Week.

Manager Scott has made arrangements for a series of special features for his theatre and will show from four to five extraordinary pictures each week. Mr. Scott states that these are not ordinary two reel subjects, but the best in the motion picture world with such photo-players as Marian Leonard, who is recognized as the greatest emotional actress of the "movies" today.

In offering these features, which are more expensive than vaudeville, Mr. Scott asks for the support of the public, and says that when the people witness such subjects they will go home with a good taste in the mouth, just like that from a glass of good unfermented grapejuice, rather than a glass of vinegar.

For the week commencing Monday, March 23, Mr. Scott has arranged for the following features:

Monday—"An Hour Before Dawn" Tuesday—Fourth story, "Kathlyn," and Marian Leonard in "A Leaf in a Storm."

Thursday—"Into the Street," another great feature.

Friday—Marian Leonard in "As in a Looking Glass." Lay all cares aside and see this picture.

Saturday—"A Fight for a Million."

WAR RECOLLECTIONS

At this point I want to speak of something that happened while this beautiful southern bailiwick later in the war. A frequent visitor to the camp of this regiment was a handsome little bright eyed, intelligent mulatto. He seemed to have been a favorite with all the boys of the Seventh and more especially Capt. Alex Smith of Co. E. It did not take long for Smith to see that there was something in the little slave out of the ordinary. The boy staid with the company until the regiment was mustered out and Capt. Smith placed him in school where he received a fine education and later took to reading law and was finally admitted to the bar, where he took a leading position among the best lawyers in Chicago. He was an able and fluent speaker and took a prominent part in state and national campaigns up to the time of his death, which occurred only a few years ago in Chicago. While Bob Mitchell was not an enrolled member of the Seventh, he retained its remembrance and was always greeted as "Comrade Bob Mitchell."

The last time I met him was in Springfield where he had an important case before the supreme court, appealed for him the circuit court of Cook county. "All the success I have ever achieved since I was an Alabama slave and a homeless friendless little pickaninny, I owe to Capt. Alex Smith of the grand old Seventh Illinois Infantry, and I want the world to know it," said this colored barrister.

After leaving Florence the column headed direct for the capital of Tennessee which we reached after a long stretch of marching and fighting guerillas and bushwhackers who harassed on either flank for a 125 miles. We passed through Columbia, Spring Hill and Franklin. At the latter place, on November 30, 1864, one of the most desperate battles of the war was fought between the forces under general Hood, commanding the confederate forces, and the Union forces under Gen. J. M. Schofield. This was about two weeks prior to the great conflict in front of Nashville, where Gen. Thomas, the "Rock of Chickamauga," completely annihilated the veteran army that had so stubbornly resisted Sherman's army from Dalton up to the gates of Atlanta from May 4th up to the surrender on September 2, 1864.

We remained in Columbia a day or two at which place we had a spirited engagement with a cavalry force which attacked us just as the rear of the column had gotten over the Duck river bridge. The rebels were entrenched on the high bluffs and made it pretty hot for us for a while but a battery unlimbered and wheeled into position and soon put them to rout. From Columbia we moved rapidly by forced marches to Nashville, for there was a hurry-up call and we made the old pike hot till we got to our destination, September 12th. It was one of the hardest marches I ever experienced. After marching all day our limbs were so stiff and sore that we could scarcely move them the morning after.

Our arrival strengthened the garrison and we remained there till the following July, and there was something doing all that long and weary siege, for immediately after our arrival all lines of communication were destroyed. For weeks we were living on less than half rations, and the citizens were as hard up for grub as was the garrison. Our regiment built Fort Nagley on St. Cloud hill, a high promontory southeast of the city and about two miles from the state capitol. The material from which the fort was constructed was right there, consisting of limestone rock and plenty of it. And before the siege ended we found that we had built wiser than we knew and were thankful that we had put in so many laborious days and weeks building and strengthening old Fort Negley, for it proved to be the salvation of the garrison as it was mounted with siege guns, light artillery and men who knew how to handle muskets and pull the lanyard. Hardly a day passed that we did not have a hot argument with Wheeler's or Morgan's cavalry. All this time rations were becoming shorter and shorter and the situation becoming more desperate each day. Andrew Johnson (who succeeded President Lincoln after the latter's assassination in April 1865) was the provisional governor of Tennessee at that time and showed great courage and swore by the living God that he would "leave the capital city a pile of ashes before he would consent to surrender to the damned cowardly traitors of his country." Cannons were planted all around the capitol building and men were stationed at every available place inside and out prepared to defend the building to the last ditch. I was one of the men who later I visited the old building in '62 in charge of a detail from our regiment. A little more than 52 years later I visited the old capitol again and stood where I had stood while helping to defend the old building. This was while I was returning from Andersonville, Ga., where Governor Deneen, his staff and the monument commission, of which I was a member, had been to dedicate the Illinois-Andersonville monument December 20, 1912. While in the capitol I called a young man named Hooper who was holding the gubernatorial chair down and told him practically what is written above. He was very cordial and seemed very much interested in my recital of what had occurred many years before he was born, he being apparently not over 35 or 40 years of age, and the only Republican governor Tennessee ever had and his election was the result of a split in the old mountain-buttressed, rock-ribbed, moss-back democratic party and either faction would sooner have seen the devil governor rather than a representative of either of their gang. Standing around the building as ornaments are a number of old pieces of artillery, mounted just as they were in '62. In answer to a question a guide told me they were the same identical pieces that were used during the siege and defense of that very building 52 years ago. All this was of intense interest to me as I had been an humble participant in the stirring events of that period and had done my little share in helping to save Nashville and all Tennessee to the Union.

While my regiment was quartered in Fort Negley the Sixteenth was stationed at Edgeville, a village just across the Cumberland river, and now a part of the city of Nashville. The colonel of that regiment got a pointer that Gen. John H. Morgan, the noted confederate cavalry leader was to attack and burn the bridge connecting the two towns. Accordingly on the morning of the 5th of November, just as the dawn began to streak the eastern sky Morgan and his rough riders came down the pike like a cyclone, and just as they came in sight the old Sixteenth rose from behind their works and poured a deadly volley into mounted Johnnies. The result was disastrous to the men in grey and hundreds of horses returned without riders and Morgan gave the besieged garrison a much needed rest for some time. Some of those same old rough riders were citizens of Jacksonville for many years after the war, one or two of whom held important public positions under our city government. So far as I know Ed Cunningham is the only one now residing in this city. I think he belonged to the Second Kentucky cavalry and was in Bazill Duke's brigade of Morgan's division, the latter of whom made the great raid through Kentucky, Indiana and Ohio in the summer of 1863 and stirred up the border states as they had not been stirred for many, many moons. This same Morgan and a large number of his jolly swash-bucklers ended up in the penitentiary at Columbus, Ohio, for disturbing the peace and quiet of the neighborhood through which they passed, unsolicited and uninvited, in the beautiful summer time of a little more than a half century ago. Some of our former fellow citizens followed the fortunes and misfortunes of this dashing warrior in many of his picturesque exploits in Dixie land and were with him when he invaded Indiana and Ohio. They were E. D. Rothwell, member of the board of education from the third ward, and at one time overseer of the poor; E. G. Harris, one time owner of the Gravel Springs distillery, a few miles west of the city; James March, who was in the book and magazine business for many years and, as before stated, Ed Cunningham, who is still a resident of the city. Bazill Duke, who commanded their regiment (the Second Kentucky cavalry) is still living in Louisville, Kentucky.

SOME RECOLLECTIONS OF THE GREAT REBELLION

(By Capt. J. M. Swales.)

It was a notable fact that immediately after a great battle, like artillery played an important part, that of Island Number 10, where it was almost invariably followed by a great downfall of rain. So it was on this occasion and while our cannon crashed and roared, and the enemy helped to increase the din, old Jupiter Pluvius took a hand in the game and dished up one of the finest electrical storms I ever experienced. The cannon roared from our lines and answering roars came from the enemy, while heaven's artillery crashed and lashed the elements into a wild frenzy that seemed to draw the earth and sky together, and the lightning's red glare all this awful commotion. The trenches were knee deep in mud and water and we were compelled to remain in them till the elements ceased their warring. That was a time which tried men's souls and the motto that is in them. After a siege lasting several strenuous days the enemy finally evacuated Island No. 10 and the strong garrison at New Madrid stole away in the night and crossed the big river and the combined forces of the enemy retreated down the stream to Tiptonville, Tennessee. The morning after the evacuation the Tenth and Sixteenth were transported to the other shore and were soon in hot pursuit of the retreating Johnnies who seemed utterly panic stricken and demoralized. The trail was easy to follow as the road over which they traveled was literally covered with clothing, accoutrements of all kinds, muskets, squirrel rifles, antiquated flintlock muskets, shot guns of all kinds, makes and calibers, Arkansas toothpicks, etc. At Tiptonville the panic-stricken horde halted for they could go no farther for at that point the Mississippi river and Reed Foot lake formed a kind of wedged shape barrier, and the stuff was all off. We followed them all day and far into the night. Seeing that further effort to get away was useless, Gen. McCall, commander of the Confederate force, surrendered to General Morgan. In command of our brigade. This was on the morning of the 7th of April 1862, and on the same day that was fought the terrible second day's battle of Shiloh, over on the Tennessee river where more than thirteen thousand were killed, wounded and captured on the Union side and as many or more of the men in grey. As a result of the New Madrid campaign and the affair at Island No. 10, more than 5,000 prisoners fell into our hands together with a vast number of cannon and all of their camp paraphernalia, etc. It was an unconditional surrender on the part of the enemy and a terrific blow to their power and prestige along the Father of Waters. These prisoners were all sent to Camp Douglas, the site of which is now in the great business center of Chicago.

The victors returned to New Madrid, thinking and believing that the end of the struggle was near. Our loss in killed and wounded was insignificant compared to that of the enemy and accordingly there was great rejoicing on the part of General John Pope and the rank and file of the new army of the Mississippi which had accomplished so much in the way of opening the great river and which was a good start for other important events that were soon to follow swift and furious, which all ended in glorious triumphs for the boys who composed the invincible battalions of Illinois and other western states, whose fame are indelibly written on the pages of the great conflict.
At the close of the New Madrid campaign General Pope issued the following general order:
"The Tenth and Sixteenth Illinois commanded respectively by Col. James D. Morgan and Robert F. Smith, were detailed as guards to the proposed trenches (in the rear of New Madrid) and to aid in constructing them. They marched from camp at sunset on the 12th, drove in the pickets and strong guard of the enemy, as they were ordered at right shoulder arms, and without returning a shot covered the front of the entrenching parties and occupied the rifle pits during the whole day and night under a furious and incessant cannonading from 160 pieces of heavy artillery. At the earnest request of their colonels their regimental flags were kept flying over the trenches though they offered a conspicuous mark to the enemy, the courage, coolness and cheerfulness of these troops exposed for two nights and a day to the incessant fire of the enemy at short range (less than a half mile) and the severe storm which prevailed, the whole night, are above all praise."

"By order of Major General John Pope, Commanding."

When first issued that order stirred the heart and patriotism of every member of the old Tenth and Sixteenth as they had never been stirred before or since, for it was more than ordinary distinction for these two gallant old regiments to be selected out of such a vast number of other commands to be complimented by special order of the general in command of a fine, superb host of invincible volunteers.
Down the Father of Waters.
Returning to New Madrid after rounding up the butternut army at Tiptonville, Tenn. The army of the Mississippi was loaded on to a large number of transports and headed down stream. There must have been as many as thirty or forty of the finest steamboats that ever plowed the foaming billows of that mighty stream. The Tenth being on the extreme right of the army it had the post of honor in that grand military pageant. Our steamer was the Polar Star, a magnificent sidewheeler of the ante-bellum days, and plied between St. Louis and New Orleans during most of the war period, and years after. The forest trees on the river shore were fast donning their robes of emerald and were alive with feathered songsters, many hued and varied as to their musical attractions. Looking back to the long line of transports almost as far as the eye could reach the sight was one of dazzling splendor. From the hurricane deck of each steamer could be seen Old Glory fluttering in the balmy April breeze, while the sun shone on glinting steel with blue coated thousands of boys who were going they knew not where—just obeying orders. The headquarters of Gen. Pope and staff were on the Polar Star, the entire fleet being conveyed by some of the gunboats that had helped to put Fort Donelson and Island No. 10 out of commission only a short time previously.
Our destination proved to be Fort Wright and Fort Pillow, some miles above Memphis, and not far from the Arkansas line. The recent heavy rains above had increased the volume of water of the old Mississippi for miles and miles until it was a vast inland sea, inasmuch that only a portion of the troops could effect a landing and this at a little hamlet known as Osceola, Ark., right on the bank of the river. All the enemies we had to contend with at that place were "Gallinippers." Did you ever see one, or listen to him singing? Oh, but he is a wonder of wonders of the insect species. As near as I can describe him he is a cross between an Illinois mosquito and a wasp, and when he presents his bill you will know that he has been there. The average home grown buzzer is not in it with this Arkansas product no more than is an English sparrow with a chicken hawk.
Before the water subsided so that all the troops could be landed to move overland to either of the forts mentioned, Gen. Pope received peremptory orders to report to Pittsburgh Landing, where the great battle of Shiloh had been fought on the 7th. So we returned in the same order that we had come down, the Tenth leading the grandest array of transports that had ever been seen by the natives who "habitated" the towns and villages on the shores of the stream that two mighty armies were stretching every nerve and straining every muscle to control. We left New Madrid on the 13th and on the 24th of April we pitched our tents on the banks of the classic shores of the Tennessee.

It seems that the result of the conflict at Shiloh had not been satisfactory to the powers that be (or were at that time) and Gen. H. W. Halleck, who was in charge of the department of the west, came up from St. Louis and took command, and ordered all the available troops in his department to report without delay to Pittsburgh Landing. So the army of the Mississippi, the Army of the Tennessee, the Army of the Ohio and the Army of the Cumberland all gathered on and near the historic field where the greatest slaughter of the war had been fought to a finish between Grant, A. S. Johnston and Beauregard on Sunday and Monday, April 6th and 7th, 1862.
There has never been any doubt in the minds of people unbiased but what the Union army got decidedly the worst of the game on Sunday, as Grant's army had been driven clear back to the river and was in a rather embarrassing position, and the god of battles only knows what would have happened on Monday had it not been for the timely arrival of Buell with the army of Ohio Sunday night and in time to throw his fresh battalions into the fray Monday. All day the great slaughter went on with unabated fury and thousands were added to the mortuary

The Good Appetite

BY WALT MASON

If man enjoys his daily vittles, he is a happy nib; he need not care if Fortune whittles a stick to prod his ribs. In times of stress and grim disaster, if appetites survive, then men just throw in steak the faster, and pies in blocks of five. No woes or troubles can kerfummix the men who like to eat, who are equipped with modern stomachs than simply can't be beat. Should Fate, that grim and grisly spinner of grief, camp on my trail, if I can have a good square dinner, her buffets won't avail. The men who how before disaster, who tremble and repeat, to whom woe sticketh like a plaster, are those who do not eat. Napoleon, to good fighters partial, once combed his scanty wool, and said: "Men can't be brave and martial unless their tanks are full." Let me but eat a roasted turkey, well stuffed, in farmhouse style, and though the outlook's dark and murky, I still shall sing and smile. I may be victim of abuses, and woes may come in troops, but let me eat a pair of geese, and I don't care three whoops.

NEXT CHIEF OF STAFF IS THOROUGH STUDENT

Major General Witherspoon Who is to Succeed Major General Wood Well Posted in Military Affairs.

Washington, D. C., March 20.—Major General William W. Witherspoon, who is believed to be slated to succeed Major General Leonard Wood, when the latter's tour of duty as chief of staff of the army expires next month, has the reputation of being one of the most thorough students of military matters in the army. He is an authority on the theory and tactics of war, and has published several valuable pamphlets dealing with phases of the war game. In addition, as president of the War College and more recently as assistant chief of staff, he has been foremost for several years in planning and deciding movements of the army. He, with his assistants in the War College made out the schedule by which troops were first mobilized on the Mexican border when affairs in the southern republic assumed a threatening aspect in 1912.
General Witherspoon is a native of this city. He was appointed to the army as a second lieutenant in 1873 and was promoted to the rank of first lieutenant in 1879. During his entire military career he has been identified with the infantry branch of the service. From 1905 to 1909 he served on the general staff and during part of that period was president of the War College. For one year, beginning in May, 1909, he was assistant to the chief of staff and then followed another two-year period as head of the War College. At the beginning of 1912 he was placed in command of the Department of the Gulf and continued at that post until transferred back to Washington to act again as assistant chief of staff. General Witherspoon was born November 16, 1850, so that if he is appointed to the position of chief of staff he will have but eight months to serve before he is retired for age.

ROADS IMPROVING.
Residents of the county report roads in various conditions, generally good where they have been dragged. As far as the Point the traveling is quite good, but west of that the going is rather bad. A few weeks of wind and sun will leave the highways generally quite passable.

of this place was deserving of an immediate investigation, for which Gen. Stone's friend, Senator Mc-Dougal, was so insistent upon, without avail. Had this been done instead of the course adopted by the administration, of which Mr. Kenedy gave a true statement, in my belief Gen. Stone would have been able to prove his innocence by persons then living. I doubt if the movement across the river to the bluff was ordered or originated by Gen. Stone, but did come from one of higher rank.

Had a military board been ordered or an investigating committee of congress been had, just after the death of Col. Baker, all the facts in the matter could have been had in this matter.

At the time Gen. Stone ordered Col. Baker to cross the river it has been recited that Col. Baker then held a commission of major general and he could have, under the circumstances of there being inadequate transportation in case of defeat, for those men luckily enough to effect their escape, to have assumed command and refused to obey
Gen. Stone's order.

If he had in disobeying General Stone's order to cross the river he might have been court martialled on such a charge, tried and found guilty or exonerated.

I agree with Mr. Kennedy when he says, "that when an officer in command is disabled there are rules governing the succession to command on the instant." But this case in the Baker and Stone discussion is not a parallel one under that rule, and cannot so be claimed, as no disablement had occurred; therefore the rule could not apply. In general military matters rank is first in order.

Neither in war times or that of time of peace are military laws obeyed and I cite one instance, viz. That when Mr. Roosevelt was president and Mr. Taft was secretary of war the riot occurring at Brownsville by the colored troops, the president —the secretary of war concerning—discharged without honor all the battalion of colored troops, innocent and guilty alike, thereby both of aforementioned were guilty of having violated the laws governing the land and naval forces of the United States, inasmuch as the president usurped the power to act as judge, jury and executioner without a trial, to which they were entitled.

Later Mr. Roosevelt announced that the men who would prove their innocence would be reinstated. Under the common law a man is innocent until he is proven guilty, after trial.

I have had no military education, have no pretension of being a lawyer, and Mr. Kennedy may, as he suggests, that I am in error, he may be right.

The little knowledge I have of military matters was obtained in the Mexican war as a soldier, in the civil war as an officer from observation and experience.

Editor Journal:

In the issue of the Journal of March 15 under the headline,
"Discusses War Times Data," Mr.
Elijah H. Kennedy in writing about Colonel Baker at Cerro Gordo, refers to Gen. Twigg's official report of that battle, in which Colonel Baker commanded the brigade after Gen. Shields had been disabled, "was that it was conducted with ability."

No person could dispute the correctness of that report.

Mr. Kennedy then refers to Gen.
Scott's reference to the same matter, to-wit: The brigade so gallantly led by Gen. Shields and after his fall, by Col. Baker, deserves high commendation for its fine behavior and success.

The only comment on this I wish to make is that Col. Baker's brigade, like other commands in the army,
had no occasion whereby one brigade should be commended and others unnoticed, for they all had only to follow in the wake of the retreating enemy.

There was no incident that occurred, known or heard by me, on the march of troops from Cerro Gordo to Jalapa, deserving of special mention.

Col. Baker was as patriotic and as brave, although of foreign birth, as any of our native born.

In concluding Mr. Kennedy said, in part, I think, too, that Major King's own recollection will probably justify my statement that the flank movement ordered by Gen. Scott, * * * I most assuredly agree with him in his statement.

J. N. King.

A PLEASANT SURPRISE.
Each year the sisters of George Yeck, one of the solid and reliable citizens of Jacksonville, endeavor to make him a visit about the time of his birthday, March 25th. He has five and four of them living in Bardonia so that it is easy for them to get over. This year they decided to arrive Saturday and he here over Sunday and yesterday morning the worthy gentleman was expecting them but they failed to arrive. The men don't work Saturday afternoon at the car shops so he ate his dinner and proceeded from his home, 805 North Main street, to the square and while he was away
the sisters came: Mrs. Josie Siden-er, Miss Augusta Yeck and Mrs.
Henry Elrick and son Oscar. One, a teacher in the high school at Bardonia, and the other were detained by illness.

Mr. Yeck felt disappointed at the non-arrival of his sisters but took it with the best grace possible and imagine his surprise and delight when he returned home in the afternoon to find them there. A merry time was enjoyed by all and the birthday of the worthy gentleman was duly celebrated in a fitting manner.

JURORS BENEFITS IN DRAINAGE CASE

FINDING IN MAUVAISTERRE DIS-TRICT MADE KNOWN SATUR-DAY.

Many Changes in Original Assessment Made But Grand Total is Only About $800 Greater—Estimated Benefits are $28,520.35—Appeal Does Not Seem Likely.

The jury which has for weeks been occupied with hearing the evidence in the Mauvaisterre Creek drainage case brought in a verdict Saturday afternoon. The jurors made a great many changes in the assessment roll but the grand total is only about $800 more than the original estimate. The jurors had a weary task in listening to the testimony, a more disagreeable one in surveying the land and possibly the most arduous work of all was in formulating the verdict. The jurors were Patrick Quigley, James Mahon, Thomas Harrison, E. N. Kitter, Patrick Devlin, Marcus Hulet, Jerry Cox, Ed Rea, John Burns, Frank Lindsay, Charles Cussins, Sherman Luttrell.

After the assessment roll has been confirmed by Judge Brockhouse it will be the duty of the commissioners, Messrs. John Moss, Charles Ogle and F. J. Blackburn, to advertise for bids and proceed with the work. Meanwhile an appeal to the supreme court may be taken. This however seems unlikely as the expense of such an appeal would be very large. L. O. Vaught is attorney for the commissioners and the Caldwell Company, engineers.

The original assessment roll and the final totals fixed by the jurors are as follows:

A STRANGE GERMAN DANCE.

Dr. C. E. Cole is in receipt of a letter from his sister, Miss Stella Cole written from Munich, Germany, in which is described the Schafflertanz or Cooper dance, which is given once in seven years by the inhabi-ants of a little village near Munich.

According to a Mediaeval legend, there once appeared in the village a deadly plague. The peasant folk did not know how to combat the pest but in their necessity invented this dance as a diversion from calamity.
They made a vow that if delivered they would prepare and give the dances once in seven years and have kept that promise. The Schafflertanz are brightly dressed and brilliantly accoutered and the "wreatgroups", "crown-groups" and other fantastic figures wrought by them are indeed beautiful.

An Address to the Democrats of Morgan County

Are you aware of the following facts:
That a vacancy exists in the judgeship caused by the resignation of Judge Owen P. Thompson?

That a judicial primary is to be held March 24th?

That Morgan county has long had a resident circuit judge because of its area, population and volume of court business?

That this is the third largest county in this judicial circuit, and that Sangamon and Macoupin, the two larger counties, now have resident judges?

That Greene county has had the congressman for a dozen years by the assistance of the 4,000 loyal Democrats of Morgan county?

That Morgan county has more court business than Jersey, Greene and Scott combined?

That Jacksonville is the most accessible county seat in the whole circuit?

That the one thing more than any other which will certainly cause the people of Morgan county to lose the judgeship is the apathy of the Democratic voters of the county?

That the Democratic nomination next Tuesday is conceded to be equivalent to an election?

That the only chance voters will have to nominate a resident circuit judge is Tuesday, March 24? No other time will do.

That in Judge Francis E. Baldwin Morgan county has a candidate by training, experience and temperament qualified for the office?

That all the foregoing propositions must be answered by every thoughtful Democrat in Morgan county in the affirmative?

Therefore, Democrats of Morgan county should cast their votes on Tuesday, March 24th, for Judge F. E. Baldwin.

That we, the undersigned, will do everything in our power from now until 5 o'clock p. m. next Tuesday to induce THE DEMOCRATIC VOTERS OF MORGAN COUNTY TO COME OUT AND NOMINATE JUDGE BALDWIN.

That we appeal to all the Democrats of Morgan county to join with us in the endeavor to bring out every DEMOCRATIC VOTE IN MORGAN COUNTY at the judicial primary on Tuesday, March 24, 1914.

roll of the tragic Sunday whose blood made slippery the slopes of the hills and valleys where American valor was put to the supreme test. "When Greek meets Greek," then comes the tug of war," but when Northern American valor meet Southern chivalry, both elements composed of the best fighting blood of the nation, the harvest of death must be frightful to contemplate. The awful carnage at Shiloh up to that time had no parallel in the history of modern warfare. It was a carnival of death where thousands of lives went out in the smoke of battle the awful crash of cannon, the rattle and roar of musketry carrying them down, down into the vortex of red ruin. Such was butchery around and about that little old country church on that crimson field, made immortal by the valor of the Union volunteers who gave the last full measure of devotion to the cause which gave us a reunited nation, welded in the fire of battle, and a flag cleansed by the best blood that ever pulsed the human heart.

By the time Halleck had gathered in all that he wanted he had, including all arms of the service, an army of 108,000. He at once issued his pronouncement declaring himself commander-in-chief of this mighty host. Grant was (supposedly) second in command, and at the same time was placed under a cloud, and so remained during the entire siege of Corinth, which was to last more than a month—a month of little fighting but lots of digging trenches and throwing up breastworks, rifle pits, forts, etc. Spades surely was trumps all during that tiresome, tedious, wasting siege. Halleck was the most cautious general that ever commanded an army and at all times seemed to think and act on the principle that caution was the better part of valor. Had he listened to the urgent pleadings of some of his subordinate generals we could have closed in on Beauregard and captured his entire army, horse, foot and dragoons. He had more than double the number of confederates in and about Corinth and the gallant western boys were only too eager to grapple with this swash buckling Creole and his goober eaters, corn-crackers and Louisiana tigers and eat them blood raw, or words to that effect. During the entire siege there were only two or three engagements of any particular note, and these were fought by the boys who had won the victories of New Madrid and Island No. 10 under Pope, whose star was then in the ascendancy, but was to culminate in disaster at the second battle of Bull Run late in July, '62.

The most serious fighting the Tenth experienced during the siege was when the entire regiment was deployed as skirmishers and drove the enemy through Four Mile Swamp to Farmington, about four miles east of Corinth, where Morgan's and Palmer's brigades had a mixup, all of which resulted in the enemy being driven back to their works. Palmer was the first colonel of the 14th Illinois infantry, who later commanded the 14th army corps in the Army of the Cumberland, and governor of this state from 1868 to 1872. From the time our regiment left Pittsburg Landing we were engaged picketing, skirmishing, digging trenches and rifle pits. In seems that every company carried as many picks and spades as there were muskets, and you ought to have seen them dig! The laziest man in the company soon became an expert with the oblong implement of agriculture, for his personal safety depended upon getting behind a ridge of Mississippi soil and in a trench about three feet deep. Believe me, he needed no unguent, for with him self preservation was the ruling passion that pervaded his anatomy from the crown of his head to the soles of his feet. He might be ornery and lazy in camp but on the firing line he was there with the spade when ordered to dig, as we dug our way up to the very gates of Corinth and literally shoveled the rebels out of their stronghold and allowed them eventually to evacuate at their leisure. Pope's Army of the Mississippi occupied the extreme right of the besieging forces and the Tenth infantry, the extreme right flank of this splendid fighting machine, and so, A. the post of honor, which was the extreme right of the line. The objective point for which the union army was "digging" its way was a plot of ground about 4 feet 8 1/2 inch-square, the same being the junction of the Memphis & Charleston and the Mobile & Ohio railroads, from which Beauregard was depending upon for the sinews of war. There was not a single day after the 21st of April until the 30th of May that Halleck could not have annihilated the rebel army in his front had he displayed the generalship that characterized some of our leaders, more especially such heroic men as Pope, who was so largely instrumental in opening up the Mississippi to the sea.

The program of digging and advancing and still digging was carried out to the letter as planned and mapped by Gen. Halleck, much to the disgust of the brigade and division commanders, to the very last day of the siege. On the night of the 29th of April tremendous explosions could be heard in Corinth and it was thought by part of the enemy that the other part had made a night attack on the rebel works and a great battle was on. We could hear the whistles of the locomotives and the crash and roar of bursting shells and the rumbling of incoming and outgoing trains on the Memphis & Charleston road, for this line was less than a quarter of a mile from our advanced outposts. Most of the trains were going out, all loaded to the limit with troops, artillery and other munitions of war. The town was in flames. The magazines were blown up and everything of value was either taken by the enemy or destroyed. On the morning of the 30th the order for a general advance along the whole line was given and we advanced over their works and into the town and captured what was left—which was a few hundred sick and wounded in hospitals who were in no condition to be removed. The enemy had, like the Arabs, folded their tents and silently slipped away. A portion of Halleck's army followed their rear guard as far as Booneville, Miss., forty miles distant, and returned to the scenes of their former conquests (?) and went into camp in and around that spot of death-dealing miasma and putrid water where hundreds of our boys were burned up with wasting fever, caused by the swamp water we were compelled to use for bathing and culinary purposes. That entire siege from start to close was the most consummate fiasco to be found in the annals of the war and Halleck was looked upon as one of the great men of that period, and one on whom rested the hope of the republic and the salvation of our flag. Had either Pope, Logan or McClelland been in command the result would have been vastly different and the war might have been closed at Corinth instead of Appomattox, nearly three years later.

We remained in the swamps of northern Mississippi until about the 20th of July and all this time the ranks were being rapidly decimated by diseases incident to camp life. The water was foul and sanitary conditions (or the lack of them), were something frightful to contemplate. The weather was scorching hot and vegetation of all kinds looked as if it had been drawn through a furnace. Surgeons were kept on the jump trying to stay the ravages of disease while the bugles worked overtime with that plaintive old call: "Quinine, quinine, qu-i-n-i-n-e!" This old standby was doled out to the boys for all kinds of diseases that prevailed the camp, so that when any of them were unable to keep up their end of the game they were told to join the "quinine brigade" and if too sick to march they were dumped into an ambulance or an old army wagon drawn by sick mules with a driver in charge whose profanity made the circumambient atmosphere somewhat lurid.

On the 21st of July we moved out of the death-dealing camp and were ordered to Nashville, Tenn., and marched through the north end of Mississippi over into Alabama. For a short time we camped near Tusculum, a beautiful, healthy section of that state and the change seemed like a transfer from Gehenna to a land of pure delight, with running streams and as pure, invigorating air as was ever wafted over the hills and valleys of that region which was yet untouched by the iron hand of a devastating war. We were the first Yankees to "pollute" the soil of Northern Alabama and the natives were astonished to learn that we were not the monsters we were purported to be. From what they had been told by southern orators and fire eaters they expected to see an army of mastodontic proportions. Yankees with horns on 'em who would devour the natives—men, women and children—blood raw and not leave a greasy spot. Such was the reputation that had preceded us. While the long column was passing through a village I distinctly remember hearing a woman say: "Why they are just like we-uns. I haint seed one of 'em with a horn on yit."

All through that portion of northern Mississippi the heat was stifling, and the dust was ankle deep, while great clouds hung like a pall over the moving column. Streams were as dry as the streets of tophet and canteens were strangers to moisture. Many fell dead in the ranks from sunstroke, while the sky resembled a vast dome of molten brass and the sun was almost hidden from view by the impenetrable veil of dust that seemed to move along with the weary column whose uniforms were so covered with the pulverized red estate that they could hardly be distinguished from those marching under the "Bonnie Flag" of the confederacy. It was a time that tried men's souls (and soles) to the extreme end of the limit of human endurance. The ambulances, old army wagons and a miscellaneous collection of all sorts and descriptions of other vehicles were pressed into service to carry those who had fallen by the wayside. Many were left to perish where they fell, food for vultures that usually hover over a battle-field or follow in the wake of an army. It was a case of the survival of the fittest or rather, the strongest. A tall Hibernian in my company fell out of the ranks into the stifling dust utterly exhausted. I urged him to get up and come on for we would soon go into camp.

"I can't march another furr!" says he, "I'm kilt wid the hate." His complexion resembled that of a boiled lobster. In fact we all looked as if we had been par boiled and grilled and roasted to a turn. It was our first actual full summer in the land of cotton, niggers, poor whites and slave owning aristocracy, the latter of whom had been living on the sweat and toil of the black race since the days of Washington and the founding of the republic. All this under the "flag" of the "free" and the home of the brave. The poor whites of the south at the period of our history were poor indeed and in truth, they were not only poor but ignorant and illiterate to a degree that was a disgrace to a supposedly enlightened civilization. During my four years service I do not remember to have seen a solitary county school house, such as we have in the north at this time or had when the yer was a full blast. Illiteracy, ignorance and blind superstition were the mainstay of the slaveholders' rebellion and the ranks of the southern army were filled with poor whites who never owned a slave, and yet their slaves were the ones who were fighting for the Yankees because "they come down fresh to free their niggers." I do not say that all southern soldiers were of the class mentioned, but a vast preponderating majority were. As a rule the confederate officers had sufficient education to keep company and regimental records. Of course most of the leaders were highly educated especially in the science of war. Lee and Jackson and Longstreet and Hood and Hardee and Beauregard were all finely educated and superb leaders in the army of poor whites. Why they should not have been for did they not have the advantages of West Point, the finest military educational institution in the United States, or be world for that matter? And there were others of the southern leaders who had been educated by Uncle Sam. Jeff Davis, president of the confederacy, was first day at Shiloh, Joseph E. Johnston, who confronted Sherman's army, in the Atlanta campaign with 80,000 veterans in grey, and a vast number of others who were educated at the expense of the government they tried to destroy and in its steady endeavored to build a nation founded on human slavery, ignorance and prejudice.

After camping around Tusculum for a few weeks we finally, on the 21st of August struck tents and continued our march, passing through Huntsville, which was then a winter resort for southern aristocracy, and in ante-bellum times a kind of mecca for northern pilgrims who wanted to escape the rigors of the northern climate. We then proceeded on through Athens and to Florence, a beautiful little city located on the classic banks of the Tennessee, where we crossed and marched on to Nashville, Tenn.

IMPROVEMENTS AT GRIGGSVILLE.
Mrs. C. G. Winn of Griggsville was in the city shopping yesterday. Her husband is now mayor of Griggsville and many improvements have been made in the place. The road from the station has been paved with concrete, walks have been laid, the town cleaned up, lights installed and things improved generally.

THICK, GLOSSY HAIR

FREE FROM DANDRUFF

Girls—Try It! Hair Gets Soft, Fluffy and Luxuriant at Once—No More Falling Hair.

If you care for heavy hair, that glistens with beauty and is radiant with life, has an incomparable softness and fluffy and lustrous, try Danderine.

Just one application doubles the beauty of your hair, besides it immediately dissolves every particle of dandruff; you cannot have nice, heavy, healthy hair if you have dandruff. This destructive scurf robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life, and if not overcome it produces a feverishness and itching of the scalp; the hair roots famish, loosen and die; then the hair falls out fast.

If your hair has been neglected and is thin, faded, dry, scraggy or too oily, get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine at any drug store or toilet counter; apply a little as directed and ten minutes after you will say this was the best investment you ever made.

[We sincerely believe, regardless of everything else advertised, that if you desire soft, lustrous, beautiful hair and lots of it—no dandruff—no itching scalp and no more falling hair—you must use Knowlton's Danderine. If eventually—why not now?—Adv.]

Mrs. Oyer Wright, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Burch, Miss Mary Wright, J. G. Dowell, George Woods, Miss Jeanette McCarty were all visitors in the city yesterday from Franklin.

STOCK DEMAND DIMINISHES CAUSING LIST TO FALL BACK

Falling Off of Demand at High Figures Was Believed to Signalize Completion of Covering of Shorts.

New York, March 21.—The strength which developed yesterday in the stock market was sustained only temporarily today. The market forged ahead in the early dealings; then the demand diminished and the list fell back. At the close small net losses were the rule.

The reaction was occasioned largely by profit-taking.

Falling off of demand at the high figures was believed to signalize completion of covering of the short interest. An actual cash gain of more than $6,000,000 reported in the bank statement surprised expectations and made the best showing of many weeks. Despite a considerable gain in deposits the surplus was increased materially as a result of the week's operations.

AFTER A STUBBORN FIGHT CORN CLOSES STEADY AT A NET LOSS

Bearish Cable Quotations Due to a Prospect of Abundant Supplies. Makes Wheat Easy From Start.

Chicago, March 21.—After a stubborn fight corn today closed steady but at 3c to 3 1/2c net decline. Other leading staples too, all showed a loss—wheat a shade to 1/4c; oats 1/4c to 3/4c and provisions 7 1/2 to 12 1/2c.

Reports that the St. Louis cash market had become demoralized were current just before the weakness in corn here was most pronounced. The Chicago bulls, though seemed to have no idea of joining a stampede.

Bearish cable quotations due to a prospect of abundant supplies from all quarters made the wheat market easy from the start.

It was somewhat peculiar nevertheless, that the new crop months were more firmly held than May.

Traders in oats took their cue from the action of corn. Much of the business consisted in changes between May and July.

Projections of larger receipts of hogs next week tended to drag down provisions. Speculative selling assumed considerable importance.

TWO ARE INJURED WHEN OLYMPIAN IS DERAILED NEAR CHICAGO

Trainmaster Declares Derailment Was Caused By Wreckers With Robbery as Motive.

Chicago, March 21.—Two men were slightly injured tonight when the northbound Olympian, an all-steel transcontinental train on the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad, was derailed tonight three miles from the union depot. The engine turned completely over.

Peter Haddock, the engineer was scalded and A. J. Stoltz, the fireman escaped with painful bruises. Both reside in Milwaukee.

Charles Costello, general train master of the road, arrived at the scene of the wreck at midnight and asserted the derailment had been caused by wreckers.

"The bolts from the fish-plates and spikes from the ties were on the embankment along the right-of-way," he said. "In some instances the bolts were ten feet from the rail joints. We found foot prints on the embankment which were not made by passengers or members of the crew. The only motive I can think of is robbery. I have assigned every available railroad detective to the case."

Few people in Central Illinois, who are at all interested in baseball have not heard of the fellow, who has been called "Bluejacket", but whose right name is James Smith. If there is anything to the term "being found" Frank Belt, the former pitcher of the Jacksonville club in the Central association has the honor of finding Bluejacket. That was when Belt was managing the Keokuk team of the Central association in 1909. Bluejacket stayed with Belt through 1910 and in 1911 joined Jack Herbert who was managing the Pekin club of the Illinois-Missouri league. In 1912 Bloomington purchased the twirler, and he was with that club that year and during 1913 and has signed up for the coming season. Last year Bluejacket won 23 games and lost 12. Syfert, who used to pitch for Rowland on the Jacksonville club when it was a member of the Northern association has great confidence in the Indian twirler and believes he has a great future before him.

Bluejacket was born in Adair, Oklahoma and after tossing a ball around the lot with the "kids" developed quite an arm for a youngster. He joined the National Male Seminary team of Oklahoma and later he started north with an Indian ball club. When the club reached Roodhouse, Ill., it disbanded, and Bluejacket looked around for a place to go. He heard that Pittsfield, Pike county, had a good independent team so he went there and secured a job under manager Charles Brown. It was while pitching for that town that Belt's attention was called to his ability and made him an offer, which he accepted.

Local fans will well remember the day that Bluejacket pitched his first game on a local diamond. It was the time that Billy Sunday umpired the game, Pittsfield vs. Jacksonville. It was a close contest Jacksonville winning by a score of 5 to 2.

Bluejacket stated yesterday that Bloomington had the nucleus for a good team this year. Among the old men back are Marks, pitcher; Lucas and Jackson, outfielders; Lister, first base and Keuppner, catcher. Fresh of Sandwich, Ill., is a new pitcher recommended by Bluejacket. He believes it he has the making of a big leaguer. Bluejacket himself has ideas of crawling up and declares that by the last of June, he will be wearing a big league suit.

Bluejacket never gets done laughing over the game Bloomington played last year with Pana just after the season closed. He said that Syfert lived in that neck of the woods and was very desirous of annexing the game. He said that everybody he knew (Bluejacket and when the sixth inning came on some Pana batsman, pulled one so far that Syfert grew sick at heart and took him out and put Marks in who pitched about as poor a game as his predecessor. Bluejacket says there is a possibility that Bloomington might play an exhibition game with the Eagles here.

MRS. HELEN BROWN READ RETURNS FROM LONG STAY ABROAD

Talented Singer Will Remain in Jacksonville for Several Weeks—Has Been Exceptionally Successful in European Work.

Mrs. Helen Brown Read returned to her home in Jacksonville Saturday evening over the 8:20 Chicago & Alton after a sojourn of almost three years in Germany and England. Mrs. Read has been engaged in operatic and concert work and has won laurels as a singer before European audiences. She has been in this country about a month, landing in New York the latter part of February and spending the intervening time in the eastern states. Mrs. Read went to Germany in 1911 and sang in grand opera. Her headquarters were at Chemnitz. On leaving that country she associated herself with Madame Pavlova, a well known Russian dancer, for a trip through England. Most of her time during the last two years has been spent in London as a concert singer, with side trips from time to time to the principal English cities. Mrs. Read expects to remain at her home in Jacksonville at least for several weeks.

The Hatter and the Earl.

"The late Earl of Cork was a very pious person and extremely solicitous as to the future salvation of his fellow men. One day, finding himself in a crowded railway carriage, he delivered a homily as earnest as it was undesired, exhorting every one immediately to set about insuring his happiness in a future life. Presently one of the passengers, who had been listening very attentively to all that Cork said, arrived at his station," says Lord Saffield in his memoirs. "When he had got out on the platform he turned round, and leaning through the carriage door, said: " "Thank you, sir! One good turn deserves another. You've put me up to a wrinkle in your profession; now let me give you one in return. I'm a hatter. Put a piece of blotting paper inside the lining of your hat and it will last twice as long. Good day!"—London Globe.

The Ladies of Jacksonville Enhance Their Personal Charm By the Use of

Newbro's Herpicide

It is a significant fact that Jacksonville people use more Newbro's Herpicide than any equal number of people elsewhere. Desiring always to appear at their best the ladies of Jacksonville have been quick to recognize the great excellence of Newbro's Herpicide as they know that its intelligent use will add more to the beauty of their hair than anything else. They are justly proud of radiance and luster of their tresses made possible by having hair that is clean and healthy and a scalp free from dandruff. It is by saving and beautifying the hair growing on their own heads that the Jacksonville Ladies add so much to their personal appearance.

Fifteen years ago Newbro's Herpicide was the only germ remedy for dandruff in America. At that time, both the remedy and the theory were ridiculed. But since then Herpicide has achieved an almost marvelous success and the story of its astonishing merit has penetrated to every corner of the globe.

Now the Herpicide claims and Herpicide advertising have been freely copied by the manufacturers of other scalp remedies. Bear in mind too, that during this change of front the remedies themselves have not been changed, simply the claims for them. Here is the point. Why should you experiment with something, claimed to be as good as Herpicide when genuine Herpicide, the Original Germ Remedy, may be purchased in every drug and department store in Jacksonville.

The "just as good" kind is good for the substitutor's cash register but is not good for your scalp.

Applications of real Herpicide can be obtained at any good barber shop. Two sizes 50c and $1.00. Sold and guaranteed at all drug stores. A trial bottle 10 cents—A booklet FREE—Send for both.
